

Position : Technical Officer, Livestock

Educational

Qualification : Bachelors or Master's degree in Veterinary Science/animal nutrition/ rural management/ with minimum 2-3 years of experience in livestock research/ development/support services. Sound understanding of pig / goat production systems and their role in rural livelihoods, particularly with underprivileged communities and groups would be required.

Organization : Collectives for Integrated Livelihood Initiatives-CInI registered under the Societies Act is an associate organization of Sir Ratan Tata Trust. With an organizational mandate to work for livelihood enhancement of the tribal communities, CInI focuses its works in tribal areas of West Bengal, Orissa, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat, Maharashtra and South Rajasthan. CInI's develops approaches for comprehensive tribal development in collaboration with partners of the Central India Initiative. It focuses on food security and livelihood security through its core themes of Food Security, Diversion Based Irrigation, Micro-Finance, Community Based Institutions, Forest Based Livelihoods. It engages in these themes through a) comprehensive programmes in partnership; b) Knowledge Management on tribal communities; c) Idea Incubation and Research; d) Networking and Coordination for Policy Advocacy on tribal livelihoods; and e) Monitoring and Technical Backstopping of field projects. CInI has recently launched a partnership with the International Livestock Research Institute (www.ilri.org) for enhancing knowledge systems in livestock development in Jharkhand, as part of a multi state partnership with the Sir Ratan Tata Trust. CInI is interested in building on this partnership while strengthening its work on livestock enhancement across the Central India Initiative.

For more details Ref: www.cinicell.org

Desirables

1. Good Communication & Documentation skills
2. Good knowledge of English & Hindi
3. Computer knowledge in MS Office

Job Profile

: Experience of working in a multi stakeholder programme, you'll be Familiar with community mobilization, capacity building and comfortable working closely with different partner organisations including NGO,academicians government departments and other resource agencies.

1. Provide technical skills and strategic inputs to the organisation on pig/goat project in Jharkhand.
2. Provide technical support to partner agencies to enhance the quality of the programme activities,
3. Provide conceptual inputs for livelihood promotion activities with focus on increasing access and control of resources for poor, and marginalized communities.
4. Build linkage/alliances with NGOs/rural communities/Universities etc.
5. Promotion projects through community participation.

Nature of Job : Contractual, Salary based on qualification and experience.

The application should reach CInI by 30th of April'2011, and should be addressed to: Executive Director, Collectives for Integrated Livelihood Initiatives (CInI), Email- recruitments@cinicell.org & info@cinicell.org