

Position : Monitoring Associate/Associate coordinator (Drinking Water and Water resource development)

Educational Qualification : Bachelors/Master's degree in social science/rural management / Development/ engineering/geology with 3-5 years of experience of working in community based rural development; specifically in the areas of drinking water, water resource development and management, environmental sanitation, health & hygiene. Experience in public health engineering would be an added advantage

Organization : Collective for Integrated Livelihood Initiatives – CInI, registered under the Societies Act is an associate organization of Sir Ratan Tata Trust. With an organizational mandate to work for livelihood enhancement of the tribal communities, CInI focuses its works in tribal areas of West Bengal, Orissa, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat, Maharashtra and South Rajasthan. CInI's develops approaches for comprehensive tribal development in collaboration with partners of the Central India initiative. It focuses on food security and livelihood security through its core themes of 'Food Security, Diversion Based Irrigation Micro-Finance, Community Based Institutions, Forest Based Livelihoods. It engages in these themes through a) comprehensive programmes in partnership; b) Knowledge Management on tribal communities; c) Idea Incubation and Research; d) Networking and Coordination for Policy Advocacy on tribal livelihoods; and e) Monitoring and Technical Backstopping of field projects. Partners of the central India initiative is already addressing drinking water issues through host of interventions. CInI is interested in strengthening this area of work including specific pilots on this in partnership with the water and sanitation portfolio of the Sir Ratan Tata Trust.

Desirables For more details Ref: www.cinicell.org
: 1. Good Communication & Documentation skills
2. Good knowledge of English & Hindi
3. Computer knowledge in MS Office

Job Profile : Experience of working in a multi stakeholder programme, you'll be familiar with community mobilization, capacity building and comfortable working closely with different partner organisations including NGO, academicians, corporate government departments and other resource agencies. You would coordinate closely with the team of the drinking water initiative of the Sir Ratan Tata Trust. In this collaboration you would:

1. Help distill experiences and issues in Water resources development and management (specially drinking water) the Central Indian tribal region
2. Review, understand and support implementing the drinking water initiatives being undertaken by partners of the Central India Initiative
3. Anchor the pilots undertaken by CInI in various collaborations.
4. Provide technical support to partner agencies to enhance the quality of the program-me activities,
5. Build linkage/alliances with NGOs/rural communities/Universities etc.

6. Complement CInI team with core competencies in managing and implementing drinking water sanitation programmes.

Nature of Job : Contractual, Salary based on qualification and experience.

The application should reach CInI by 25th of April'2011, and should be addressed to: Executive Director, Collectives for Integrated Livelihood Initiatives (CInI), Email- recruitments@cinicell.org & info@cinicell.org